Trevor Harris

Vice President, Corporate Affairs

Trevor Harris, currently serves as Vice President, Corporate Affairs for Stelco, responsible for the Company's government and public affairs activities, investor relations and trade.

Since joining Stelco in 2008, Trevor has overseen all international trade matters on behalf of the Company, including acting as the lead coordinator for trade cases filed with the Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) and the Canadian International Trade Tribunal (CITT), as well as acting as the company's primary representative on the Canadian Steel Producers Association (CSPA). He participates as a member of the North American Steel Trade Committee (NASTC) and represents Stelco at both the American Iron and Steel Institute (AISI) and the OECD Steel Committee.

Prior to joining Stelco, Trevor was owner of a government relations and public affairs firm based in St. Catharines, Ontario, providing strategic direction and results to organizations in Niagara and across Ontario. He has served on countless political campaigns and his posts in government have included Director of Research to the Premier of Ontario, Senior Policy Advisor to an Ontario Minister, and Chief of Staff to a Member of Parliament. Trevor also spent time in the public affairs branch of the Canadian Consulate in Buffalo, NY, and as an account manager in the marketing industry.
